- All investigative reports
- Photographs, audio, and video
- Transcripts and interview recordings
- Autopsy reports
- All materials presented to the District Attorney's Office
- Administrative findings
- Disciplinary records

The following is a list of what may be redacted from those documents above:

- Personal data or information, such as a home address, telephone number, or identities of family members, other than the names and work-related information of peace and custodial officers.
- Information that will preserve the anonymity of whistleblowers, complainants, victims, and witnesses.
- Confidential medical, financial, or other information of which disclosure is specifically prohibited by federal law or would cause an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy that clearly outweighs the strong public interest in records about possible misconduct and use of force by peace officers.
- Where there is a specific, articulable, and particularized reason to believe that disclosure of the record would pose a significant danger to the physical safety of the peace officer, or another person.

The Research and Development Unit, in collaboration with the Internal Affairs Unit, is coordinating the release of all public records pursuant to SB 1421 and SB 16. Any Department member with records subject to release will be notified and provided an opportunity to review the records prior to release. The release of records under Senate Bill 16 will begin after January 1, 2023.
